A Red Cross meeting was held at the church Sunday. There was present at the meeting a reasonable number of enthusiastic people, determined to organize for service in this much needed work. Quite a number joined the ranks to do their bit in aiding the soldiers of the U. S. The splendid efforts of the committee which canvassed our town Sunday resulted in adding quite a number of names to the membership roll. It is the great volunteer army that is serving humanity as well as the nation. The funds for carrying on the work of this great army are secured through subscriptions and membership dues. A membership in the Red Cross does not necessarily carry with it any responsibility either of work or field service. It gives thousands of people in every community the only opportunity they have to furnish aid in this great world crisis. The cause is great—hospital garments, hospital supplies and surgical dressings are needed in large quantities for the use of wounded soldiers and sailors. The Red Cross needs funds.
